Biographical note

Henry Morgenthau, Jr. was born on May 11, 1891 in New York, NY, and was raised in a secular German Jewish family. His father, Henry Morgenthau, Sr., was appointed Wilson's ambassador to the Ottoman Empire, 1913-1916, and Henry Jr. visited his father in Istanbul. Though Henry attended Cornell University, he did not graduate but instead bought a large farm in Dutchess County, NY, near the home of Franklin Roosevelt. The two men became friends. In 1916, Henry met and married Elinor Fatman; the couple had three children: Henry III (b. 1917), Robert (b. 1919), and Joan (1922-2012). Henry intended to make a living as a farmer, and also published the American Agriculturalist magazine. When Roosevelt was elected governor, Henry was appointed to an agricultural advisory committee. In 1934, on the death of Roosevelt's Secretary of the Treasury, Morgenthau was appointed to the position. After his resignation in July 1945, Morgenthau became more heavily involved in Jewish affairs. He became General Chairman of the United Jewish Appeal and was a financial advisor to the newly-created state of Israel. "Tal Shajar," an agricultural community near Jerusalem, was named in his honor. After Elinor's death in 1949, Morgenthau married Marcelle Morgenthau in 1952. He passed away in 1967.

Henry Morgenthau III was born on January 11, 1917 to Henry Morgenthau, Jr. and Elinor (née Fatman) Morgenthau. He is the eldest of the couple's three children and was raised in Hyde Park, NY. He attended The Lincoln School, Deerfield Academy, and Princeton University, graduating in 1939. After two years working on public housing issues in Cleveland, OH, Morgenthau joined the United States Army. He fought in the European Theater, transferring to the Second Cavalry. After the war ended, he returned to the United States and continued to work in public housing issues. He became involved in theater, working with the New Dramatists, and with public radio and television. In 1962, he married Ruth Schachter, who escaped the Holocaust as a child. The couple had three children: Sarah (b. 1963), Henry (known as Ben) (b. 1964), and Kramer (b. 1966). They settled in Cambridge, MA and were involved in many philanthropic endeavors. Henry spent most of his career with WGBH, while Ruth, who held a PhD in African politics, was a professor at Brandeis (1963-2002). She passed away in 2006.

Scope and content of collection

The Morgenthau family collection documents the interpersonal relationships between members of the family of Henry Jr. and Elinor Morgenthau and their children, Henry III, Robert, and Joan.

Series 1, a chronological series, includes family documents, miscellaneous correspondence, clippings, school papers, publications, invitations, calling cards, business materials, photographs, and other ephemera collected by members of the family throughout the 20th century. Henry Morgenthau III is the nexus of the collection; therefore many of the documents from the 1930s relate to his schooling, the 1940s relate to his wartime military service, and post-war folders to his business ventures and work with public radio and television. The 1930s include his diary written on a trip to Europe, including references to meetings with Ambassadors Steinhardt and Bullit, and conversations with Martha Dodd. The folders related to Princeton University include an anonymous anti-Semitic note sent to Henry III, and the folders related to the late 1930s include correspondence from Herbert Lehman, governor of New York, to his niece, Elinor Morgenthau, about sponsoring German relatives seeking to immigrate from Nazi Germany.

Series 2 contains personal correspondence between members of the family. This series includes love letters between Henry Morgenthau Jr. and Elinor Fatman prior to their marriage, including letters sent from Henry while visiting his father while Henry Sr. was stationed in Constantinople (now Istanbul). The correspondence clearly shows how close the family remained, even after the children in college and serving in the military. Letters between Henry Morgenthau Sr. and Henry Morgenthau, Jr. in 1933-1936 include personal business discussions, as well as materials sent to father and son, including correspondence from people in Germany seeking assistance with immigration. In 1944-1945, Henry Morgenthau Jr. dictated letters to his sons about projects at the Treasury Department, including War Bonds, Bretton Woods, and the Morgenthau Plan for post-war Germany. As Elinor Morgenthau was hospitalized in Florida from March-May 1945, Henry's correspondence to her and to his children document his personal feelings about the end of the war, the death of Franklin Roosevelt, Harry Truman, and his resignation from the Treasury Department in July 1945.

Series 3 includes invitations and parking instructions sent to Henry Morgenthau III for White House functions and dinners, most of them informal. This series also includes tickets to inaugural events for Franklin Roosevelt and for Herbert Lehman, as well as original and copies of correspondence between the Roosevelts and Morgenthaus, dating from 1914-1963.

Series 4 contains materials collected or created by Henry Morgenthau, III, while researching his manuscript, "Mostly Morgenthaus." The collection includes transcripts of oral histories conducted by Morgenthau with members of his extended family, with Treasury Department staff members, and with family friends. This series also includes original correspondence and documents related to these individuals.

Series 5 relates to the actual research, writing, and publication of "Mostly Morgenthaus," written by Henry Morgenthau III, which was published by Ticknor and Fields in 1991. Subseries 1, the research series, includes extensive family research, correspondence, clippings, articles, photocopies of archival documents, handwritten and typed notes, and other material gathered prior to writing the text of the book. Subseries 2 includes drafts of various chapters and of the manuscript as a whole. Subseries 3 relates to the actual editing, publication, and publicity surrounding the book.

Series 6 includes a series Colliers magazine articles written by Henry Morgenthau, Jr. in 1947, a New York Times magazine article written by Henry Morgenthau, Jr. in 1949, and a "Mostly Morgenthaus" galley.

Series 7, consisting of digital copies of typed memoirs written by Henry Morgenthau III, is restricted.

Series 8 through 11 consist of photographic materials, albums, and scrapbooks documenting the Morgenthau family and their personal and professional lives. There is a great deal of overlap among these series in terms of subjects, individuals, and events.

Series 8 contains personal and official photographs of members of the Morgenthau family, friends, and colleagues and significant locations in Morgenthau family history. Individuals include Henry Morgenthau, Sr.; Henry Morgenthau, Jr.; Henry Morgenthau III; Lazarus, Josephine, Alma, Elinor, Robert, Joan, and Ruth Morgenthau; Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt; John F. Kennedy; Treasury Department officials; and Marlene Dietrich. Locations include Krumbach, Germany, Goodhart family home, Fishkill Farms, and Hupfel House.

Series 9 includes miscellaneous photographs, negatives, and corresponding materials. They depict some of the people in Series 8 and document Princeton summer camp, Deerfield Academy, and travel to Luxembourg, Greece, Germany, the United Kingdom, Athens, Munich, United Kingdom, Martha's Vineyard, Jamaica, France, and Sri Lanka.

Series 10 contains oversize photographs, photograph albums, and scrapbooks including photographs and newspaper clippings documenting many of the people in Series 8 and Series 9 as well as Morris and Lissette Fatman, Msgr John Patrick Carroll-Abbing, the Mayer Lehman family, Harriet Haas, and Roosevelt's cabinet members. Photographs also depict a November 1945 dinner honoring Henry Morgenthau, Jr. and travel to Israel, Arizona, Greece, Cleveland, Canada, and Alaska.

Series 11 contains additional photographs, albums, and scrapbooks documenting many of the people and events in Series 8, 9, and 10.

System of Arrangement:

The collection is arranged in eleven series, largely retaining the donor's original order, with series four divided into three subseries:

- Series 1: Family papers, 1860-2008
- Series 2: Family correspondence, 1905-1961
- Series 3: Material related to the relationship between the Roosevelts and Morgenthau, 1914-1963
- Series 4: Oral history transcripts and correspondence with individuals, approximately 1941-2002
- Series 5: Materials related to "Mostly Morgenthau," 1876-1992
  - Subseries 1: Research for "Mostly Morgenthau," 1876-1985
  - Subseries 2: Drafts of "Mostly Morgenthau," 1986-1992
  - Subseries 3: Publication of "Mostly Morgenthau," 1984-1992
- Series 6: Magazine articles by Henry Morgenthau, Jr. and "Mostly Morgenthau" galley, 1947-1991
- Series 7: Henry Morgenthau III memoirs, 1997-2015
- Series 8: Loose Photographs, approximately 1890-2010
- Series 9: Miscellaneous photographs, negatives, and corresponding materials, approximately 1900-2003
- Series 10: Oversize photographs and photograph albums, approximately 1860-1980

- Series 11: Photographs, albums, and scrapbooks, 1889-2009

Series 1 and 3 are organized chronologically. Series 2 and 4 are arranged alphabetically by author and therein chronologically. Series 5 is organized thematically, in rough chronological order by topic.

Researchers are advised that series 1, 2, and 4 contain many individual and thematic overlaps. For example, the type of "Family correspondence" typically found in Series 2, can also be located, to a smaller degree, in the chronologically arranged files of "Family papers" in Series 1, so both series should be examined. Likewise, the photographs, albums, and scrapbooks in series 8, 9, 10, and 11 contain many individual and thematic overlaps.
