Scope and content of collection

Contains correspondence, questionnaires, newspaper articles, essays, photographs, and research material on the fate of so-called "Judenchristen" (persons of Christian faith regarded as Jews under the Nuremberg laws, also known as "non-Aryan Christians"), Roma, and other non-Jewish victims. The records pertain to factual and individual-related information concerning emigration, food parcels, restitution, NS persecution, theological arguments, and public relations. Includes an index of people who received any kind of help or assistance by the "Hilfsstelle." Some of the names in the index are connected to specific information about which kind of help the person received.

Administrative Information

Restrictions on access: No restrictions on access.

Restrictions on reproduction and use: Restrictions on use apply. Users must sign a declaration acknowledging that they have taken notice of the Landeskirchliches Archives user regulations available at the Museum Archives reference desk. User shall obtain the written consent of the Landeskirchliches Archiv before reproducing archival material and shall provide the Landeskirchliches Archiv with a copy of all publications based on its material.

Acquisition information: Source of acquisition is the Landeskirchliches Archiv Stuttgart, Stuttgart, Germany. The agency Hilfsstelle für Rassistisch Verfolgte bei der Evangelischen Gesellschaft Stuttgart was set up after the end of the war to help Jewish and non-Jewish survivors of Nazi persecution. The materials were collected by Pfarrer Franz Majer-Leonhard, the long-time director of the agency. The records of the Hilfsstelle were placed, organized and made accessible at the Landeskirchliches Archiv National church archives (collection K 13). The United States Holocaust Memorial Museum's International Archives Project assisted in organization of records. The United States Holocaust Memorial Museum Archives received the microfilms in August 2006.
