Scope and content of collection

Contains selected records of the Unitarian Service Committee and Universalist Service Committee relating to relief efforts and assistance to Jewish and non-Jewish refugees fleeing Nazi persecution before, during and after World War II in a number of countries throughout the world, including France, Germany, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Poland, England, Switzerland, and Portugal. The collection includes mainly correspondence, reports, case files, photographs, scrapbooks and memorabilia, posters, and clippings related to the humanitarian work of the Unitarian and Universalist Service Committees, also includes poems, writings and drawings by refugees, including some drawings by children, ca. 1940. Includes correspondence of Robert Dexter, executive director, 1941-1944; Charles Joy, executive director, 1944-1946; and Raymond Bragg, executive director, 1947-1952; Edward A. Cahill, associate director, 1944-1947; Howard L. Brooks, associate director, 1943-1953; and other people associated with the Service Committee, such as Martha and Waitstill Sharp, Noel Field, Seth Gano, Helen Fogg, and Elisabeth Dexter, and others; correspondence of various organizations that were active in assisting people displaced by World War II, such as the American Christian Committee for Refugees, the American Friends Service Committee, the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, the Refugee Relief Trustees, the Congregational Christian Service Committee, and the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee; correspondence with people who were attempting to get their relatives and friends out of Europe; reports on the work of the Unitarian Service Committee in countries such as France, England, Switzerland, and Portugal, and reports on the work of the Unitarian Home Service Committee in the United States. Includes photographs documenting humanitarian work in many European countries, photographs of some of the children rescued by Martha Sharp; the Diamant sisters, 1942; Mercedes Brown, 1940; and the Theis sisters, 1940, and photographs documenting medical missions in Europe, Israel and Iran, as well as some photographs of key USC members.

Main topics include relief work in Czechoslovakia, an early efforts on behalf of several agencies to aid the victims of war-torn Europe; case files on individuals the Service Committee tried to assist, including children and several well-known artists and writers; assistance to displaced persons from World War II; medical projects in European countries and Israel; International Refugee Organization projects, International Youth Projects, activities of the new York office of the UUSC for the refugee project; collaborations with the United Nations service efforts; fund-raising programs; youth volunteer projects; and information about Helen Fogg, who was a leading figure in the Service Committee's activities during and after World War II; work of the Committee in children's homes and work camps in Europe after World War II; and assistance to people in finding shelter and employment in the United States.

Historical note

The Unitarian Service Committee was formed as a standing committee of the American Unitarian Association in May 1940. Its purpose was to be a committee to investigate opportunities both in America and abroad for humanitarian service. In mid 1945, the Universalist Service Committee was formed. The Unitarian Service Committee (USC) separated from the American Unitarian Association (AUA), and USC Canada became a separate entity in December 1948. In 1961, the American Unitarian Association (AUA) united with the Universalist Church of America to establish the Unitarian Universalist Association. The official establishment of the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee (UUSC) occurred in 1963, when the Unitarian Service Committee and the Universalist Service Committee merged into one. During and after World War II, The Unitarian Service Committee aided hundreds of displaced persons in occupied countries, allowing many of them to find passage to the United States. The present-day Unitarian Universalist Service Committee continues to endeavor to advance human rights and social justice throughout the world.

Series 6

bMS 16004, Selected Records of the Unitarian Service Committee.
Refugee Case Files, 1938-1951.

Summary: Contains records relating to the Unitarian Service Committee's efforts to aid individuals who had been displaced from their homelands during World War II to enter the United States as a result of the Displaced Persons Act of May 1948. This act authorized individuals who were displaced from their homelands as a result of World War II to enter the United States. The Unitarian Service Committee reviewed applications for those applying for assistance and endeavored to help many individuals find homes and employment in the United States. The correspondence and applications in this collection includes biographical information, information about the occupations of individuals, and accounts of the ways they were living as displaced people. They are from countries such as Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Spain, etc. The bulk of the correspondence is dated from 1946 to 1949, and much of it consists of copies of the responses made to individuals by Friedl Reifer, who was the director of the USC casework department at that time. Case files organized in the alphabetical order.

Extent: 29,901 digital images (JPEG); 25.2 GB.

SERIES 7

bMS 16007, Selected Records of the Unitarian Service Committee. Executive Director. Administrative Records, 1940-1951.

Summary: Collection includes records of Robert Dexter, executive director, 1941-1944; Charles Joy, executive director, 1944-1946; and Raymond Bragg, executive director, 1947-1952. Contains also correspondence of Edward A. Cahill, associate director, 1944-1947; Howard L. Brooks, associate director, 1943-1953, and acting director, July-November 1952, July 1946-March 1947; as well as other people associated with the Service Committee, such as Martha and Waitstill Sharp, Noel Field, Seth Gano, and Elizabeth Dexter. Includes also correspondence with various organizations that were active in assisting people displaced by World War II. Some of these groups were the American Christian Committee for Refugees, the American Friends Service Committee, the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, the Refugee Relief Trustees, the Congregational Christian Service Committee, American Committee of OSE, and the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee. The collection also includes correspondence with people who were attempting to get their relatives and friends out of Europe; reports on the work of the Unitarian Service Committee in countries such as France, England, Switzerland, and Portugal, and reports on the work of the Unitarian Home Service Committee in the United States.

Series 10

bMS 16024, Selected Records of the Unitarian Service Committee. Administrative Correspondence, 1941-1953.

Summary: Contains correspondence and reports created by many people associated with the Unitarian Service Committee. Among the individuals represented in this collection are: Raymond Bragg (executive director), Howard Brooks (associate director), Edward Cahill (associate director), Lotta Hitschmanova (director of the USC in Canada), Noel Field (European director of the USC), Helen French (director of the Bad Rothenfelde children's home in Germany), Helen Fogg (director of child and youth projects), Varian Fry (founder of the Centre Americain de Secours in Marseille), Seth Gano (vice-chairman of the USC's first Board of Directors), and Charles Joy (executive director). Correspondence and reports relate to efforts of the Unitarian Service Committee made during and after World War II to feed and clothe displaced children and adults in Europe, and to help many of them flee Europe and establish themselves elsewhere. Edward Cahill's correspondence concerns Japanese relocation efforts in the United States. The establishment of the USC medical missions is discussed in the files of Howard Brooks. The purpose of these medical missions was to send physicians and scientists overseas to share American medical and scientific techniques with doctors who had suffered from the long blackout on scientific knowledge caused by war and dictatorships.

Series 11

bMS 16027, Selected records of the Unitarian Service Committee. Administrative Records, 1945-1949.

Summary: Contains correspondence, memos, reports, relating to activities of the New York office of the Unitarian Service Committee, which functioned as a center for shipping goods to needy people overseas. This office was opened in 1942 and Henry Muller, a refugee who directed it during the first five years, operated appeals for clothing, food, medicine, and items such as toilet kits, tools and garden supplies. Total shipments for the peak year, 1946, amounted to more than 1,200,000 pounds. The collection includes correspondence to and from Henry Muller and his assistant, Anne G. Huppman; Herman Ebeling and Erna Sternberg, also from the New York office, and other USC members such as Dorothea B. Jones, who was the assistant to Howard Brooks in Boston, as well as the State Department, the Treasury Department and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRA).

Series 15

bMS 16031_ Selected Records of the Unitarian Service Committee. Administrative Records, 1941-1957.

Summary: Contains correspondence and reports concerning a number of charges that were raised against the USC in 1946. These charges include claims that the work of the USC in Europe was under Communist influences; that some members of the USC, specifically Herta Tempy and Noel Field, were Communists; and that the USC work in Spain was under the control of the Communists. The Wood-Rankin Committee of the House of Representatives investigated the charges concerning Communism. The collection includes correspondence to and from USC members Seth Gano, Charles Joy, William Emerson, Martha Sharp, Noel Field, and Robert Dexter. Correspondence concerning the work of the USC with Spanish refugees, much of which is to and from Helen Bryan, executive secretary of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, (JAFRC) is also included. The predecessors to the JAFRC were the United American Spanish Aid Committee, the Rescue Ship Mission, and the American Committee to Save Refugees. The records cover 1941-1957.

Series 17

bMS 16035, Selected Records of the Unitarian Service Committee. Project Files—Refugee Case File, 1941-1952.

Summary: Contains records relating to many aspects of the relief work that the Unitarian Service Committee conducted in France, Switzerland, Portugal, Holland, Hungary, Germany, Poland, and Czechoslovakia. Several different agencies and organizations are represented, such as the Council of Relief Agencies Licensed for Operation in Germany (CRALOG); the Child Projects Department of the USC, which included the American Youth for World Youth and a home for children in Olesovice, Czechoslovakia; and general reports that describe the relief work that the USC was doing with refugees in France and other countries. Many of these reports describe the conditions of the refugees, and outline the needs of the USC, which include money, clothing, and medical supplies. Individual correspondents include Helen Fogg, Raymond Bragg, Arthur Lee (director in France in 1948), Charles Joy, Noel Field, Ernst Papanek, and Herman Ebeling and Friedl Reifer, who were the two assistant directors from the New York office. Some files on workcamps in the United States and overseas are also included.

Series 19

bMS 16043, Selected Records of the Unitarian Service Committee. Refugee Case File, 1946-1951.

Summary: Contains Unitarian Service Committee case files, mostly correspondence, on displaced persons sponsored under its adoption plan. The records cover 1945-1951.

The Unitarian Service Committee offered assistance to displaced people during and after World War II in a number of ways, some of which are documented in this collection. Under the USC "adoption" plan, sponsors in the United States usually sent a package of food monthly via the USC to a needy family or individual in Europe, as well as occasional clothing packages. The USC also assisted people in finding shelter and employment in the United States. In relation to these efforts, the USC had to file documents known as "assurances" with the Displaced Persons Commission. These assurances stated that individuals placed by the USC in the United States would be suitably employed at prevailing rates of pay without displacing other persons from employment; that they would not become public charges; and that such persons would have safe and sanitary housing. The Unitarian Service Committee was one of eleven organizations which joined forces in 1944 to create the Central Location Index, which was established to provide a central index for registering the names of people displaced as a result of war, and to ascertain the whereabouts of such people so that they and their relatives and friends could establish mutual contact. In conjunction with the Index, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA) established the Tracing Bureau to help survivors locate relatives who had survived the concentration camps. Most of the records in this collection consist of the correspondence between USC caseworkers, people in need, and individuals who were attempting to help them. Some of the caseworkers were Maria Oppenheimer, Friedl Reifer, Erna Sternberg, and Muriel Towle.
