Administrative history

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA) was an international relief agency, largely dominated by the United States but representing 44 nations. Founded in 1943, it became part of the United Nations in 1945, and it largely shut down operations in 1947. Its purpose was to "plan, coordinate, administer or arrange for the administration of measures for the relief of victims of war in any area under the control of any of the United Nations through the provision of food, fuel, clothing, shelter and other basic necessities, medical and other essential services". Its staff of civil servants included 12,000 people, with headquarters in New York. Funding came from many nations, and totaled $3.7 billion, of which the United States contributed $2.7 billion; Britain $625 million and Canada $139 million. The Administration of UNRRA at the peak of operations in mid-1946 included five types of offices and missions with a staff totaling nearly 25,000: The Headquarters Office in Washington, The European Regional Office (London), the Twenty-nine servicing offices and missions (2 area offices in Cairo and Sydney; 10 liaison offices and missions in Belgium, Denmark, France, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, Trieste; 12 procurement offices in Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, Cuba, India, Mexico, South Africa, Southern Rhodesia, Turkey, Uruguay, Venezuela; 6 offices for procurement of surplus military supplies in Caserta, Rome, Honolulu, Manila, New Delhi, Paris, Shanghai), the sixteen missions to receiving countries (Albania, Austria, Byelorussia, China, Czechoslovakia, the Dodecanese Islands, Ethiopia, Finland, Greece, Hungary, Italy, Korea, the Philippines, Poland, Ukraine, Yugoslavia), and the Displaced Persons Operations in Germany.

UNRRA cooperated closely with dozens of volunteer charitable organizations, who sent hundreds of their own agencies to work alongside UNRRA. In operation only three years, the agency distributed about $4 billion worth of goods, food, medicine, tools, and farm implements at a time of severe global shortages and worldwide transportation difficulties. The recipient nations had been especially hard hit by starvation, dislocation, and political chaos. It played a major role in helping Displaced Persons return to their home countries in Europe in 1945-46. Its UN functions were transferred to several UN agencies, including the International Refugee Organization and the World Health Organization. As an American relief agency, it was largely replaced by the Marshall Plan, which began operations in 1948.

The Bureau of Areas was set up in January 1944 as the Headquarters unit in direct control of field missions, and was organized to include the following eight Divisions: The Area Coordination and Liaison Division, the Camps Division, the Staff Services Division, the Distribution Division, the Western and Northern European Division, the Southern European Division, the Central and Eastern European Division, and the Far Eastern Division.

On 3 May 1945 the Director General issued a directive which abolished the Bureau of Areas and established in its place the Bureau of Services. The main effect of this directive was to decentralize control of the European Missions from Headquarters to the London Office, with an increase in the authority of the Chiefs of the Missions over their subordinate personnel, and to provide a means for coordinating the work of the functional Divisions of Health, Welfare and Displaced Persons. In the course of the reorganization, the Staff Services Division was transferred to the Bureau of Finance and Administration, the Camps Division was transferred to the Displaced Persons Division, and the Distribution division was transferred to the Bureau of Supply. To replace the Areas country desks, the Requirements and Allocations Coordination Branch of the Bureau of Supply was reconstituted, as a Country Programs Division. Duties of an advisory and informational character relating to European country missions, which had not been delegated to ERO, were entrusted to a separate Office of Country Mission Affairs (OCMA) reporting to the Senior Deputy Director General. The Office of Country Mission Affairs was formally abolished on 1 June 1946, and in its place was established the Office of European Mission Affairs, reporting to the office of the Chief Executive.

Duties and responsibilities of the Bureau of Areas included:

In general, to supervise field operations on behalf of the Director General directly or through delegation to Regional Offices, including formation of field missions and development of field budgets.

To furnish intelligence liaison service between the Administration and outside agencies, and to effect program coordination on matters outside the scope of a single area division. To be responsible for overseas clearance of field personnel, receipt and dispatch of communications from field missions, and review of field personnel; to review administrative procedures affecting field missions. To review camp management operations and provide technical advice on the management of camps; to determine the supply requirements and policies affecting camps. To develop through consultation with governments a distribution policy, and to develop plans and provide technical advice on distribution facilities and methods.
