

Not really. [LAUGHS] It's no biggie one way or the other. I've got to search through it anyway. That's pretty bad that they-- in the news, I've only seen one time on the regular news or those type moves from where they mentioned him being racist or whatever.

No.

And only once-- I mean, they hardly ever talk about it. They'll say, do we consider his past or whatever?

Oh, you have no idea of the things he says.

I mean, it's--

Or has said, and he's very careful now. It didn't go over, you see. It didn't go over, the Blacks that are against him.

Yeah, the NAACP wouldn't sponsor it. I'm really surprised.

No, I'm not.

They usually have gotten into a lot of this. I've seen some stuff where they, I guess because it was so nationally covered, there was so much controversy about it, they stayed out of it.

They couldn't afford to do it. They really couldn't.

But that's a rare time when they have it.

He's the perfect dictator. And so is Jesse Jackson.

He's real bad. I couldn't believe David Letterman had him on the other night. He had him on.

I didn't want to listen to it. Did you hear it?

Jesse Jackson on David Letterman?

Yeah. I saw he was saying his typical stuff. And then what's funny is afterwards, oh, who was it, Shannon Doherty or whatever. She was on Our House. But she's this actress. She was on afterwards.

And Dave, he was like, what did you think of Jesse Jackson and whatever? And she said, well, you wouldn't want me to comment on that. And she said, I'm a Republican. If you remember about it, you know. She's like, in '92, I led the pledge at the Republican Convention.

Oh.

So of course, you know she knew she would have gone off on him. But oh, he's bad. I hate when people compare Rush with-- I said something about Farrakhan. Someone said something about Rush. But I've never found anything. I've never heard Rush say anything racist.

No.

I've never heard anything.

I don't see him that often. I usually fall asleep at that time. [LAUGHS]

I've listened to his radio and everything. You know, I mean, if someone will show it to me or play it for me--

Yeah.

--it's fine. But I mean, I have seen Farrakhan, Sharpton, and Jesse Jackson. I've seen all three of them, on more than one occasion, say-- I mean, we're not talking implied, we're talking flat-out said stuff.

Yeah. I've heard it. And then he really went at it bad. And that's what really gave him such a bad name. And like Jesse Jackson-- you'll have to take that off the tape. I mean, you can't do that in class or anything, what we are saying there.

But Jesse Jackson, I think he, too, has calmed his voice some. My version was-- and I told my husband that when he was living-- I said, honey, I have never heard this man speak. All he does is bark. He barks-- at least, he did. I mean, it was--

Like a bulldog.

--bow-ow-ow-ow-ow. And it sounded terrible.

Well, that's what Hitler did a lot. In a lot of speeches, you see him.

Tirades, three hours long-- you know, Castro used to do that, those long-winded speeches. And Hitler did that, hours and hours, and where he found all the words, that I'll never know. Good grief. As I said.

Well, you just keep rambling. I mean, that's what Jesse Jackson used to do.

Yeah, well, Hitler said the same thing over, and over, and over, and over till everybody believed him, you know. And the best way to get somebody is if you want to be the superior one, you pick on a minority. And he picked on a minority. You can always win. He picked on the Jews. It certainly was the minority in Germany.

Well, one thing I've never said is with Jesse Jackson, he's always talking about this and that with Martin Luther King. But if what I've been taught's correct that some of the leaders in the Civil Rights were Jewish people, they were instrumental.

Helped him. Helped him, yeah. What happened, yeah. It's weird. And in Montgomery, too, in Montgomery, Alabama, you know, when they had that riot there, there were quite a few Jewish young men that were there. Some were killed in Montgomery.

Have you ever heard of Southern Poverty Law Center, it is called? Morris Dees is the head of it. Morris Dees is a lawyer. He's not Jewish. And he grew up in an environment, where his father was-- talk about the n. His father was. He might not have been with the Ku Klux, but he could have been. I'm not too sure on that.

And he has an organization that goes after all these Klan militia, all those kind of organizations that are trying to create problems against everybody, the Aryan Nation, and all these various groups that have. And they're violent. And they go. Now, he was in on the one-- what's the one that they are investigating so much now? The Hill? What's the guy's name? They shot his wife and his son.

Oh, yeah. And there's some of that.

Yeah. They were in. They found them and that organization. And they published everything they've done. I wished I had a copy here of it. I had a list of every one of those militia groups that he published.

I bet Farrakhan would have been really confused and had your trouble if Sammy Davis Jr. would have been aware.

[LAUGHS] He would make a good subject. Good grief.

Could cause them some trouble there. Yeah, indeedy.

They really confused him.

Oh, boy. He had everything against him. He was Black and Jewish now, you really. That's bad news.

Farrakhan would have some trouble talking to him.

He would have.

Of course, he would've claimed he had been brainwashed.

Brian, you have any questions?

Not really. I don't know everything Cory's asked last week. So I don't want that.

Well, I was wondering whether you had some of your own.

Do you have a copy of your speech?

Mm-hmm.

Did you say you had a video--

I have a video too.

--that I could, I guess, borrow or something sometime.

It's right there. You have to get it. I'm nailed down.

OK. Take the one underneath that.

This one? I think so.

Let me see that.

This is the interview. The interview?

Let me see it. Yeah. That's the original.

Now, these are the copies. This is the one they sent you, right? This is the interview.

Still alive, I have to be careful. Yeah, this is the original. I'm not going to let you have that one. But either one of those, you can have. A neighbor of mine did them. Let me explain that. Or if you know how to put it in, I can't work this thing.

Well, I mean, can--

And put it on.

--he had a copy of the speech or something so I can borrow while I'm taking this for the tape--

It's on there. It's on there.

--at school?

It's on here, whole speech is. You've got about an hour and a half on that. I got the whole thing. Was not supposed to have it. But they messed up with me. And just because they messed up, they told me be on on Friday. They put it on on Thursday, and everybody missed it.

I knew the segment was for three days, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. And I was supposed to be on on Friday. And they did it on Thursday. It so happens, I turned it on. It was just a few minutes past 10:00, you know, in the news.

I said, oh, let me see what they're going to have on today because that was the next segment. And I turned it on. And I looked at myself. And I was gone. Huh, what happened? I was so mad because everybody here knew about it. And everybody turned it on. And it never did happen.

And so I called them, I said, what do you mean, preserving my past? They didn't preserve anything. It went on about two minutes. You know, they shrink it. They were here over an hour and a half, and not just interviewing, but they wanted to hear the speech.

So the speech is on there. Then they're explaining preserving your past on TV also. And then I have the segment that I am on and the other two days too. So you got a lot there. You might want to watch it all. But that starts off with a speech. So you can get an idea.

And it's funny. One day, I was watching Andy Rooney. Do you ever watch him on, what is it, 60 Minutes? Yeah. And he says, they do a video of you. And you're sitting there. And you're being interviewed. And you talk. And there's something wrong with my nose. And my ear itches. And I'm rubbing my chin. But I did all of it. [LAUGHS] Mostly my nose was always something itching or doing that. You don't know you're doing it. And then you see yourself, says oh, gee, god, this is awful. So anyway, I need that back too.

That's no problem. Just going to try to-- well, I guess I can look at the schedules, my main schedule. See here on my-- I'll probably be back--

Oh-oh, he'll be back.

--not the next weekend, but--

You better be because that's her tape, huh?

--either the first or second week of November, weekend. It just depends. Because this weekend, the only reason I'm afraid I might not come home is--

By the game?

--is because I have this paper due that Tuesday. And then I've got a test in the class Thursday. So I have a feeling I'll need to stay there because if I come home, I probably won't work on my paper.

No. Procrastinate and it's caught. [LAUGHS]

Well, I usually get my stuff done early. I try to get my stuff I have to get done.

Well, you're lucky if you can do it. I used to procrastinate too--

So this is what my schedule is like.

--and then mad at myself.

I do that, but that's why I've got-- see, I went ahead and done up most of my homework for the rest of the semester in computer class. I went ahead, since I had not really an easy week. It ended up being a--

It wasn't a tough one, yeah.

--frustrating week. But I mean, I didn't have a lot of stuff. I just had the paper because I did the paper Monday once. And then I had to, of course, redo it about 500 times.

You'd better be glad you all have the equipment you now have. We didn't have that. Everything went by hand. Oh, boy.

He's got the equipment. I have the car. I have to drive over to his place.

Where do you live?

Well, I live in Starkville, an apartment that's a couple of miles from his place.

I've been typing a lot of my stuff.

You don't live in Memphis normally speaking?

No, ma'am. I'm from South Mississippi. I'm just here visiting for it. He couldn't take being the star.

Huh?

He couldn't take being in start before the-- it's a suitcase college, as they say.

Are most colleges that way?

If I went to school-- even if it wasn't for Memphis, if I was going to school in a place like Memphis, I don't think I would be coming home, even if it wasn't that far away. I mean, if I was probably going to school way off, and it was a bigger place, I probably wouldn't. We're not recording, are we? Well, we are, but it--

Well.

--he can end here.

All right.
