

Susie Schwarz discusses moving from Schlichtern, Germany to Dinksburlow, Holland during her childhood; her prewar family life and their religious beliefs; how a family in Holland, the Pagrachs, hid them during the war; her daily life in hiding; her liberation from hiding; her life in Holland after the war; her experiences while immigrating to the United States; living in Baltimore, MD with her extended family; her parents immigration to the United States; meeting her husband; starting a family; her religious practices; traveling back to Holland; reuniting with the Pagrachs family; her views about being a Holocaust survivor; her feelings about other atrocities such as Rwanda and Kosovo; giving her oral testimony to the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum; her views on Israel.