

Hetty DeLeeuwe discusses life in hiding in Holland with a Christian family; her liberation by Scottish forces; reuniting with her parents; life in postwar Holland; her feelings on Germany and Germans; the similarities in her and Ann Frank experiences in hiding; meeting her husband and getting married; immigrating to the United States; her life in America; raising a family; coping the memories of her experiences during the Holocaust; her visits with the Christian family that hid her during the war; and her volunteer work with Soviet Jews in the United States.