

Lonia Mosak discusses her experience as a prisoner in Auschwitz; an uprising in Auschwitz Birkenau; her liberation from the camp; returning to Poland after the war; the Armia Kryova; reuniting with her brother; staying on a kibbutz in Bialystok, Poland; going to Austria; meeting her husband and getting married; the difficulty of immigrating to the United States; daily life in Chicago; starting a family; her feelings about her tattoo number; finding family in the United States; why she never went back to Europe; her views on Israel; how the Holocaust affected her life; neo-Nazis and anti-Semitism; her feelings on contemporary acts of genocide; her views on Germany and Germans; and religion.