

Sonia Brodecki discusses living in a ghetto in Poland; her experiences returning to Poland after the end of the war; living in a displaced persons camp in Landsberg, Germany; meeting her husband and starting a family; immigrating to the United States; moving to Richmond, VA; becoming an American citizen; the Jewish American Club; learning English; her large family; civil rights; religion; how the memory of her experiences during the holocaust have affected her daily life; getting together with other survivors; and speaking publicly about her experiences during the Holocaust.